Western premiers call for nationwide free-trade zone

Removing barriers. Saskatchewan's Brad Wall among trio of provincial leaders who say it's time for a more modern approach to trade within Canada

The leaders of three western provinces want to overhaul an agreement on internal trade.

Saskatchewan Premier Brad Wall, Alberta Premier Dave Hancock and B.C. Premier Christy Clark have sent a letter to other premiers saying it's time for a more modern approach. The three premiers say removing trade barriers would reduce the costs of doing business and help provincial economies grow.

"The new agreement and free-trade deal with the European Union, for example, would provide for open procurement with Canadian provinces even though we're not providing each other with open procurement," Wall said Wednesday in Regina.

"Arguably, it's easier for a company in the United States to bid on government procurement in Canada than it is for some Canadian companies to bid in other jurisdictions in our own country. This doesn't make any sense."

The premiers say in the letter that the current Agreement on Internal Trade, which came into effect in 1995, allows "anti-free-trade behaviour which puts us on a slippery slope to protectionism."

Wall said the old agreement takes the approach that every sector of the economy is protected unless an exception is added in.

He said a new Canada free-trade zone would flip that around to say that everything is subject to free trade between the provinces unless exceptions are negotiated.

"It's just time in our country that we have the kind of free trade we expect with other countries. We should have that between provinces," he said.

"We know that freer trade is not perfect, but it's better than protectionism. It's better for the economy and we'd like to see that."

Wall, Hancock and Clark say in the letter that they want to see a commitment for change when all the premiers meet in Charlottetown in August.

Their push should get support from the federal government. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two hurt after minivan crashes into thrift store

Two people were hurt after a minivan broke through the wall of a Salvation Army thrift store.

City police responded to the collision on the 3000-block of Diefenbaker Drive about 2:15 p.m. on Wednesday.

The driver and a person standing inside the business are both suffering from injuries. Police will release more information as it becomes available. The same day about 10 a.m., a truck jumped a curb and crashed through the window of a convenience store on the 3300-block of 33rd Street West. There were no injuries. METRO

Man faces new charges in police chase incident

Timothy Gunn, 25, who is accused of being the man behind the wheel of a stolen truck that left a trail of destruction in a nearly hour-long police chase on June 25 in Saskatoon, is facing eight new charges, including two charges of dangerous driving.

Gunn was already facing seven charges related to the incident, which damaged four police cruisers and three civilian vehicles and injured civilians.

At one point, a plain-clothes police officer fired eight shots at the driver of the truck after he allegedly tried to run him down.

Health-care workers must choose between flu shots or masks

Next flu season.
Provincial policy comes after concern over transmission of illness

Health-care workers in Saskatchewan will face an ultimatum this upcoming flu season — get a flu shot or wear a surgical mask while caring for patients.

Dr. David Torr, chairman of the Medical Health Officers' Council of Saskatchewan, said patient safety is the top priority.

"We've been advocating for vaccine for over 30 years and what we're advocating now is immunize or mask," Torr said on Wednesday in Regina.

"Whichever way, what is important is to reduce the amount of illness and transmission of illness."

Torr said influenza is the probable leading cause of death in Canada from infectious disease.

According to the Public Health Agency of Canada website, there is an average of 12,200 hospitalizations for influenza every year. The flu is blamed for about 3,500 deaths annually.

Only about half of health-care staff and physicians in Saskatchewan get annual flu shots.

Saskatchewan will be the second province after British Columbia to introduce an immunize-or-mask policy.

The B.C. policy, which came into effect in 2012, states that health-care workers who don't get flu shots must wear a surgical mask while doing duties that bring them into contact with patients for the duration of flu season, which could run from late November until late March. The policy includes provisions for escalating disciplinary actions, up to and including dismissal, for employees who refuse to comply.

A B.C. health-care workers union filed a grievance against the policy, suggesting it would impinge on privacy because it would be interpreted as a visible declaration that employees had forgone flu shots.

However, an arbitrator appointed by the B.C. Labour Relations Board ruled last October that the policy is reasonable. THE CANADIAN PRESS

All Saskatchewan health-care workers, including auxiliary staff, will be required to wear flu masks or become immunized for the fall influenza season. SARAH TAGUIAM/METRO IN REGINA

No. 1 and No. 2. U.S., China take small steps toward fighting climate change

China and the United States took small steps toward their shared goal of fighting climate change on Wednesday, but the world's No. 1 and No. 2 carbon emitters remain significantly apart over a wider global plan to cut emissions.

China's chief climate official, Xie Zhenhua, said China should not be subject to the same rules for greenhouse gas emissions as the United States and other rich countries, signalling that Beijing will oppose any attempt to impose them at next year's world climate conference.

"We are in different development stages, we have different historical responsibilities and we have different capacities," Xie told reporters.

The U.S. special envoy, Todd Stern, said Washington favours every country deciding what it is capable of doing, instead of being categorized either as a developed country or a developing country in deciding how much a country should contribute to reduce climate change.

Storm threatening Japan's major cities

Typhoon Neoguri downgraded. At least 32 injured and two dead; storm may hit Osaka, Kyoto and Tokyo

A strong storm swerved toward Japan's heavily populated main islands Wednesday after slamming through the southern islands of Okinawa, where it dumped heavy rain, knocked out power and injured at least 32 people. The storm also elevated rainfalls in other areas of the country, leaving two people dead.

Typhoon Neoguri was downgraded to a storm by late Wednesday after losing strength. But it toppled trees, flooded cars and bent railings in Okinawa, which experienced its heaviest rainfall in a half century, according to the Okinawan government.

One of the biggest storms to hit during Japan's summer, Neoguri was forecast to hit Kyushu island Thursday. Then it could possibly hit the major cities of Osaka, Kyoto and Tokyo while travelling across the main island of Honshu.

Kyushu's Fukuoka prefecture issued warnings for strong winds, high tides and heavy rains, and advised people to stay indoors as much as possible. In central Japan, rainfalls were elevated by the storm and caused floods and landslides, killing two people. In Fukushima, an 83-year-old man fell into a swollen river and died, while a landslide knocked out a house in Nagano, leaving a family of four underneath debris.

The torrents of rainfall expected could trigger more landslides and floods. Much of eastern Japan was at risk of lightning and tornadoes.

Anti-prostitution bill has major flaws, expert warns

Human rights issues. Adviser on Swedish anti-prostitution law, which Tories hope to emulate, says new bill may be unconstitutional

One of the architects of Sweden's anti-prostitution strategy — a model the Conservatives are trying to emulate — says the proposed new law is likely unconstitutional.

A provision of the Tory bill that still criminalizes prostitutes in some circumstances is also a violation of Canada's Charter of Rights and Freedoms, as well as international human rights obligations, lawyer Gunilla Ekberg said Wednesday.

Ekberg is a Canadian citizen who was an adviser for the Swedish government in the 1990s when it crafted a law that makes it illegal to be a pimp or a john, but not a prostitute.

The Harper government has tabled a similar bill in response to last year's decision by the Supreme Court of Canada.

Earlier, this week, Justice Minister Peter MacKay said he fully expects another challenge to the law, but he wouldn't say where it might be vulnerable.

Still, witness after witness, including Ekberg, sex workers, Manitoba's attorney general and a coalition of more than 200 legal experts, focused on the provision that still allows the police to arrest a prostitute under certain circumstances for communicating for the purpose of selling sex. An American who co-authored the book Fiesta: How to Survive the Bulls of Pamplona, became a victim of a bull Wednesday when he was one of two men gored at the annual Spanish San Fermin festival.

Bill Hillmann, a 32-year-old from Chicago and a longtime participant in the nine-day Pamplona street party, was gored twice in the right thigh during one of the daily bull runs, organizers said on their website.

The injury was serious but not life-threatening, the Navarra regional government said in a statement.

A 35-year-old Spaniard man from Valencia was also in serious condition after being gored in the chest during the same run on the festival's third day, the statement said.

The six fighting bulls run along a 850-metre course from a holding pen to Pamplona's bull ring in a tense and dramatic few minutes immortalized in Ernest Hemingway's 1926 novel The Sun Also Rises.

San Fermin is one of Spain's most famous fiestas and attracts thousands of foreign tourists every year.

Iraq sectarian killings?

50 bodies dumped south of Baghdad

Iraqi officials discovered 50 bodies, many of them blindfolded and with their hands bound, in an agricultural area outside a city south of Baghdad on Wednesday, raising concerns over a possible sectarian killing amid the battle against a Sunni insurgency.

The bodies, all of them with gunshot wounds, were found in the predominantly Shiite village of Khamissiya outside the city of Hillah, located some 95 kilometres south of Baghdad.

The dead were all men between the ages of 25 and 40, and it appeared they had been killed a few days earlier and then dumped in the remote area. Most had bullet wounds in either the head or the chest.

Rebels kill 14 in village: Reports

Syrian rebels rampaged through a Sunni village in the province of Hama Wednesday, firing indiscriminately at civilians and killing 14 people, including seven women, state media and opposition activists said.

State news agency SANA said an "armed terrorist group" was behind the dawn attack on the village of Khatab, located 10 kilometres northwest of the provincial capital.

Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights — which documents the violence in Syria through a network of activists on the ground — said the rebels accused the village's Sunni Muslim inhabitants of "cooperating with the criminal regime"in Damascus.

Israel hits 200 Hamas targets

Gaza Strip. Israeli leaders warn ground invasion could be imminent

Israel stepped up its offensive on the Hamas-run Gaza Strip on Wednesday, pummeling scores of targets and killing at least 22 people.

The military said it struck about 200 Hamas targets on the second day of its offensive. Militants, however, continued to fire rocket salvos deep into Israeli territory, and Israel mobilized thousands of forces along the Gaza border ahead of a possible ground operation.

The fighting stepped up as Egypt, which often serves as a mediator between Israel and the Palestinians, said it was in contact with both sides to end the violence. It was the first indication since the offensive was launched on Tuesday that ceasefire efforts might be under way.

Israeli leaders signalled a weeks-long ground invasion could be quickly approaching

"Despite the fact it will be hard, complicated and costly, we will have to take over Gaza temporarily, for a few weeks, to cut off the strengthening of this terror army," Yuval Steinitz, Israel's intelligence minister, told Israel Radio. "If you ask my humble opinion, a significant operation like this is approaching."

Since the offensive began Tuesday, Israel has attacked at least 560 sites in Gaza, the military said. Militants have fired more than 160 rockets at Israel.

Rocket strikes

The increasing range of the rockets from Gaza has disrupted life across a wide swath of southern and central Israel, where people have been forced to remain close to home and kindergartens and summer camps have been forced to close.

- Besides firing toward Israel's two largest population centres in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, Hamas also fired one rocket that reached the northern Israeli city of Hadera for the first time, effectively putting the entire country under rocket range from the north and south. The city was struck in 2006 by missiles from Hezbollah guerrillas in Lebanon.

NBA's No. 1 draft pick doesn't pick No. 1 brand

Canadian basketball phenom opts for underdog Adidas over powerhouse Nike

Andrew Wiggins will wear Adidas with the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The No. 1 overall pick in the draft, Wiggins wore the apparel company's gear while starring last season for Kansas. He chose to stick with Adidas rather than sign with a rival such as Nike in what's being called "an unprecedented partnership."

The deal announced Wednesday is believed to be worth more than $2 million per year.

"Joining the Adidas family is a blessing and an honour and I am extremely excited for what lies ahead," Wiggins, from Vaughan, Ont., said in a statement.

Adidas owns a fraction of the marketplace at about three per cent, according to retail tracking firm SportsOnceSource, while Nike dominates at close to 95 per cent with help from its Jordan brand. But the move to sign Wiggins signals a bold move by the German company to build its basketball business around young, up-and-coming stars. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

IT'S IN REVELATIONS, PEOPLE!

HE SAYS

John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

I don't want to alarm anybody, but the latest sign of the apocalypse is upon us: I made dinner, all by myself.

The ancient texts are clear about the unusual sights that will greet the final days of mankind: Rivers will run with blood, the sky will turn black, and John Mazerolle will make a nice beef stroganoff, served with red wine and a store-bought apple tart.

Behold! Tremble!

Preparing a meal might not seem like a cosmic event to you, but for a culi-nary like myself it was at the very least a moment of historical significance — up there with the fall of the Berlin Wall or that time Picard joined the Enterprise senior staff for their poker game.

For the first time in my life I made an honest-to-goodness meal.

Like, with ingredients and measuring cups and everything. No misspelled food like X-Treem Kreem Cheez. No microwave. Not even a single package of powder to sully the fingertips.

What drove me to such a strange place? Well, I'd like to have children some day. And as much as I'd like to buy 10,000 boxes of Pizza Pops and say, "See you when you're 18!" I figure I should learn to make meals so that my kids can tell me how they'd rather starve than eat the disgusting garbage I make.

You know, like a normal family.

Cooking is such an unusual activity for me that when I called my dad to ask what makes a good corn-oil substitute I could hear his confused blinking over the phone. When the realization of what I was planning to do dawned on him, he panicked.

As far as he was concerned, I'd just said, "Hey Dad! Found a landmine at the beach and was planning to rip her open. Should I use a chisel or go right at 'er with the hammer?"

He wanted to know if my girlfriend would be around to help (i.e. put out fires), or if maybe I'd prefer to make Hamburger Helper, or have an apple.

If it had been a movie, he'd have appeared from the future covered in beef stock telling me not to make the dish, lest humanity be destroyed. It was all very encouraging.

But I forged on, and learned a few important culinary tips along the way. For instance:

* Onions come in at least two colours (yellow and white).
* There is prepared mustard, though I'm not sure what it knows that the other mustard doesn't.
* Hot oil applied liberally to your thumb will burn your thumb. Who knew?

And imagine my surprise when I learned that cooking in the kitchen was pretty fun. I was actually chuckling with glee over my creation, not unlike Dr. Frankenstein if he had made dinner.

So if there are any laggards like me in the reading audience, I say put your fears or embarrassment aside and make some beef stroganoff. Or even some other meals, presuming they exist.

If you don't do it for yourself, then do it because this could be your last meal. The End Times are upon us.

SHOPPING FOR AIR QUALITY

Oxford Street air dirtiest on Earth, scientists say

London, England's Mayor Boris Johnson is under pressure to take drastic action on air pollution, after scientists discovered that Oxford Street is now the most polluted street in the entire world.

The mayor has previously dismissed air pollution levels in London as "perfectly fine."

However, monitoring stations on London's Oxford Street have discovered levels of nitrogen dioxide (NO_2) at up to 10 times the legal limit.

Scientists at King's College London said levels of the gas, caused by diesel vehicles, were now even higher than those found in Beijing. The toxic gas causes breathing difficulties and has been linked to increases in premature deaths and hospital admissions. POLITICS.CO.UK

Quoted

"To my knowledge this is the highest in the world in terms of both hourly and annual mean." David Carslaw, researcher

Why so high?

The problem with Oxford is the sheer number of diesel buses travelling (or, more likely, standing still with engines going) and that the street's a "canyon" — tall buildings set fairly near the road so fumes can't dissipate easily.

- Modern diesel engines emit more NO_2 than petrol, and London has been switching to diesel to lower CO_2 emissions.

Getting the chance to work with a Canadian music legend like Greg Keelor is a coup for any band, but members of the Devin Cuddy Band were lucky to have an in. Keelor has played alongside Devin's father Jim in Blue Rodeo since 1984.

Keelor invited Devin to his Lost Cause home studio and agreed to record and produce the band's new album Kitchen Knife.

"For me working with Greg was very familiar. He's somebody I've known my whole life so there was no intimidation, no worries about anything. It was just like doing it with a friend who happens to have quite a bit of experience and quite a bit of success," Devin said in a telephone interview.

Devin is quick to admit having a famous father in the business has opened some doors for his band, which opened for Blue Rodeo on its last Canadian tour. The experience provided some surreal moments for the younger Cuddy.

"When I was younger, I used to sit on the road cases when they'd do sound check. This time I'd be sitting there and suddenly it would be our turn to play. It was pretty cool."

And having someone who has experienced the ups and downs of the Canadian music scene for three decades to lean on for wisdom has also helped Devin as he embarked on his own career.

"I have turned to him for lots of advice, usually the little things. He's been very encouraging and he's there to help when I need it, but also hands off when I need that too, so it's been really good so far."

While comparisons are inevitable, Devin is also intent on making it as a musician on his own merits. He believes people who listen to the music will realize he's not just trading on his father's name.

"Our music is quite different. Mine is more jazz and blues influenced, although we have similar influences in country music. So that's a good way to stay separate."

Fans in Saskatoon will get a chance to judge the music for themselves when the Devin Cuddy Band makes a stop here in support of Kitchen Knife, which will be officially released July 29, but will be available at the show.

"The new songs are a bit more fully realized than our earlier stuff. I hope the songwriting is a little more mature and evolved, but that's for other people to decide," Cuddy said.

"At our shows we can always promise a good time and music to dance to."

Clooney slams 'dangerous' claims that fiancée's mother opposes marriage

Britain's Daily Mail newspaper apologized to George Clooney on Wednesday for alleging his fiancée's mother opposed the marriage on religious grounds — a story Clooney called both wrong and irresponsible.

Clooney is engaged to Beirut-born London lawyer Amal Alamuddin, whose father Ramzi belongs to a prominent Druse family. The Druse are adherents of a monotheistic religion based mainly in Lebanon, Syria and Israel.

Citing unnamed family "friends," the newspaper's MailOnline website reported this week that her mother, Baria Alamuddin, wanted her 36-year-old daughter to marry a Druse man. It said Amal Alamuddin risked being "cast out of the community" if she wed Clooney, and claimed several women had been murdered for not abiding by Druse rules.

Clooney called the story "completely fabricated."

In a statement issued to USA Today, Clooney said that "to exploit religious differences where none exist is at the very least negligent and more appropriately dangerous."

Would you let Courtney teach your preschoolers?

NED EHRBAR

You know what your television needs more of? Courtney Love. The singer and loveable crazy-pants will be guest-starring on the next season of Sons of Anarchy, according to TVLine, playing a … preschool teacher.

I mean, sure. It's not like Love is a novice actor or anything, since she's done all right for herself in movies like The People vs. Larry Flynt, Man on the Moon and Sid and Nancy. Oh, and 200 Cigarettes, if anyone remembers that flick. But … a preschool teacher? All right, if you insist, Sons of Anarchy.

The seventh and final season of the show will also feature Marilyn Manson, so clearly they're working on a theme here.

A baby Gosling? Blogosphere abuzz with pregnancy rumours

Hollywood's hottest couple may be expecting. OK! magazine reports that Eva Mendes is seven months pregnant with Ryan Gosling's baby, according to a source close to Mendes. "She's been ready for motherhood for a while now and to be sharing this experience with Ryan is a dream come true for her," the insider tells the magazine.

Ironically, Gosling and Mendes met on the set of The Place Beyond The Pines, in which they played parents. They've been dating off and on for over three years. Neither has commented on the pregnancy, even though the blogosphere is starting to buzz with the news. METRO

Cookbook of the Week

Meet nature's coolest superfood

Coconut is rich in healthy fats, high in fibre and low in carbohydrates. It grabs the spotlight in Sasha Seymour's Coconut Every Day. The book shows readers how to incorporate the superfood into 100 of their favourite everyday recipes. It features coconut in all its forms — water, milk, oil, gluten-free flour, sugar and more — in everything from salads and soups to main dishes and desserts. Among included recipes are Cauliflower Soup, Curried Chicken Salad, Shepherd's Pie, Coconut Cream Pie and more. METRO

Go ahead, lick your fingers

Sticky Coconut-Glazed Chicken Wings. These tasty bites perfectly balance sweet and heat.

"Who doesn't love a slightly sticky, sweet and spicy chicken wing?" asks Sasha Seymour in her book Coconut Every Day: Cooking with Nature's Miracle Superfood,

"A few of these served with some plain brown rice and kimchi coleslaw make a great meal, and you can substitute drumsticks and thighs if you prefer them over chicken wings for dinner."

1. Make the Marinade: In a large bowl, stir together coconut water and soy sauce. Add chicken wings, stirring to coat. Cover and refrigerate for at least 1 hour or up to 4 hours.

2. Make the Glaze: In a small bowl, combine tamari sauce, coconut sugar, coconut vinegar, and cayenne. Stir until well mixed.

Ingredients

- 1 1/2 lb (675 g) chicken wings

For the marinade

1 1/2 cups (375 ml) unsweetened coconut water
1/4 cup (60 ml) soy sauce (gluten-free, if required)

For the glaze

1/4 cup (60 ml) tamari soy sauce (gluten-free, if required)
2 tbsp (30 ml) coconut sugar
1 tsp (5 ml) coconut vinegar
1/2 tsp (2 ml) cayenne pepper

3. Preheat oven to 400 F (200 C) (or preheat grill to medium-low and lightly oil grill).

4. Remove wings from marinade and roast on a parchment-lined baking sheet (or grill), flipping and basting wings with glaze about 4 times, until wings are cooked, 35 to 40 minutes. Let rest for about 10 minutes before serving.

Makeshift dining in tight quarters

Turn on a dine. Stylish options for a tiny condo

DESIGN CENTRE
Karl Lohnes
home@metronews.ca

A reader asks: I am moving into a tiny condo and need occasional dining space that will seat 2-3 people. What are my options?

I suggest creating a multi-purpose area instead of dedicating space to a dining room that will rarely be used.

This will allow your dining space to do double or triple duty as a home office, an attractive display console or a storage area.

With a desk or console sitting against the wall, you can forgo hanging a light fixture and free up the centre of the room by not having to float a table in the middle of the space.

Instead of focusing on the centre of a dedicated dining space with a chandelier and rug, concentrate on the vertical wall of the dining area. A large mirror hanging over a desk or console table topped with potted orchids, and a decorative storage bench underneath creates an attractive vista to look at on a daily basis.

Here are a few other ideas for maximizing a dining experience within your tiny condo:

Slim pickins

Consider purchasing a slim desk or console to be used for occasional dining with guests.

- When pulled out, it should be able to accommodate two to four people easily.

Chairs

Consider using small-scale occasional chairs from your living room area as go-to dining chairs when needed.

There are also a lot of stackable dining chairs that can be stored in a closet until needed.

Purchase a few attractive outdoor chairs (often stackable) and bring them in from a balcony when needed.

A vintage-style desk can double as a charming place for entertaining. Garment Factory Desk, $1300, RestorationHardware.com. RESTORATIONHARDWARE.COM

Antiques

Like the look of antiques? There are many older furniture styles such as partner's desks, tilt-top tables and drop-leaf tables that can add old world charm yet survive in a small space. Blending antique looks within a modern apartment can make them look quite special.

Alternative options

Tray-style and tall end tables are an easy way to offer each guest their dining space while sitting in the dining or living spaces of your condo.

A library-inspired console can display books, plants and a laptop by day and seat dinner guests at night. Stanton Work Station, $600, bombay.ca. BOMBAY.CA

Raging Sterling says he'll never sell team

A raging Donald Sterling denounced his wife, her lawyers and the NBA from the witness stand Wednesday, saying he would never sell the Los Angeles Clippers and vowing a lifetime of lawsuits against the league.

"Make no mistake today," Sterling shouted toward the end of his second day of testimony in the trial to determine his wife's right to make a $2-billion deal to sell the Clippers, "I will never, ever sell this team and until I die I will be suing the NBA for this terrible violation under antitrust."

He was followed to the stand by wife Shelly, who tried to approach him in the front row of the courtroom after she was done for the day.

"Get away from me, you pig!" Sterling shouted.

Argentina crushes Oranje's title hopes

World Cup final set. La Albiceleste to take on Germany after winning semifinal match on penalty kicks

Lionel Messi of Argentina celebrates defeating the Netherlands on Wednesday in Sao Paulo, Brazil. CLIVE ROSE/GETTY IMAGES

The World Cup's second semifinal was supposed to put the silky skills of Lionel Messi and Arjen Robben in the spotlight. Instead, a goalkeeper and two rock-solid defences stole the show.

Argentina goalie Sergio Romero saved two penalties Wednesday to send Argentina into the World Cup final with a 4-2 shootout win over the Netherlands after tough defending and a lack of creative spark from either team consigned the match to a 0-0 stalemate.

In a twist of fate, Romero credited Netherlands coach Louis van Gaal with helping launch his career when he arrived as an inexperienced youngster at AZ Alkmaar in the Dutch league.

"I will be forever grateful to the coach for helping me out in a country that is so different from ours," Romero said.

A day after Germany lit up the World Cup with its clinical 7-1 destruction of host Brazil, the Dutch and Argentines could not manage a goal between them in 120 minutes before the shootout.

Messi, widely regarded as one of the greatest players of all time, will have to play far better in Sunday's final at Rio de Janeiro's Maracana Stadium if he is to engineer a win over the powerful German team. The Barcelona star was muted throughout the match and extra time, rarely managing to shake off his markers.

Semifinal

Argentina	Netherlands
0 (4)	0 (2)

At the Itaquerao Stadium, he was overshadowed by his goalkeeper and the man he replaced as Argentina captain, Javier Mascherano, who bossed the midfield for his team the way surprise starter Nigel de Jong did for the Dutch.

When Robben looked like deciding the match in stoppage time, Mascherano's perfectly timed sliding tackle blocked his shot at the near post.

Romero — thought to be a weak link for Argentina and not even a starter for his Monaco club most of last season — had almost nothing to do during the match, but blocked penalties by Ron Vlaar and Wesley Sneijder in the shootout. For Argentina, Messi, Ezequiel Garay, Sergio Aguero and Maxi Rodriguez all converted their spot kicks.

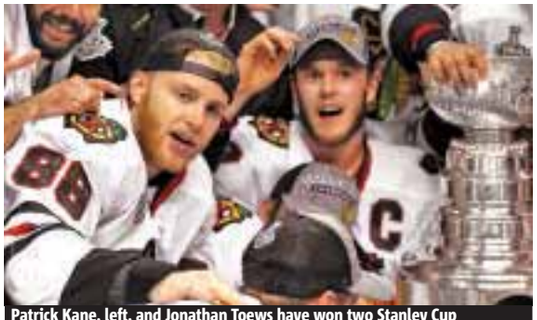
Blackhawks lock up Kane and Toews



Patrick Kane, left, and Jonathan Toews have won two Stanley Cup championships together in Chicago. GETTY IMAGES FILE

This was a no-brainer from start to finish. Jonathan Toews and Patrick Kane wanted to stay in Chicago and the Blackhawks wanted to keep the high-scoring forwards in the only NHL uniform they have ever known.

All that was left was crunching the numbers on two of the biggest contracts in franchise history.

The Blackhawks announced Wednesday they had reached eight-year extensions with two of their top performers in a long run of success that includes Stanley Cup titles in 2010 and 2013. Toews and Kane led Chicago back to the Western Conference final this year, where it lost to the eventual champion Los Angeles Kings.

Massive deals

Both contracts are worth $84 million for an average annual value of $10.5 million, according to a person familiar with the deals.

General manager Stan Bowman said all along that the extensions were his biggest off-season priority, and it didn't take very long to reach the agreements with Pat Brisson, who represents both players. Toews and Kane each have one year left on their five-year extensions from December 2009, and July 1 was the first day they could sign new deals.

"There's nothing we want more as players than to continue to win Stanley Cups for the best hockey fans on the planet," Toews said in a statement released by the team.

Angels' power brings Blue Jays back down to Earth

MLB. Pujols hits two-run homer in the seventh to lead Los Angeles to victory

As long as they have Albert Pujols at the plate in a clutch situation, the Los Angeles Angels are confident they can win any close game they trail in the late innings.

Pujols hit a go-ahead, two-run homer in the seventh inning Wednesday and Kole Calhoun also connected, leading the Angels to an 8-7 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Los Angeles took the rubber match of the three-game series after starter C.J. Wilson was chased in the fourth inning.

"This team is finding ways to win, and we're not out of it until the game's over," Calhoun said. "The bullpen came in and did a great job keeping us in the ball game after the starting pitching didn't go as deep as they've usually been going. We came out and swung the bats and got enough runs to win."

The Angels' Albert Pujols watches the flight of his two-run home run against the Blue Jays on Wednesday. JAE C. HONG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Blue Jays took a 7-6 lead in the sixth on Dioner Navarro's two-out RBI single against Fernando Salas, making his second appearance since coming off the disabled list after missing 19 games because of inflammation in his shoulder.

Pujols responded with a drive that hit the top of the centre-field fence beyond the outstretched glove of Colby Rasmus and bounced over for his 20th homer of the season and 512th of his career, tying Ernie Banks and Eddie Mathews for 21st place all-time. It scored Mike Trout.

The homer was the first allowed by Aaron Loup (2-2) this season after 43 1/3 innings.

Spurs bring back Pop without much circumstance

While the rest of the NBA world waits in limbo for LeBron James and Carmelo Anthony to decide where they are going to play next season, the San Antonio Spurs just keep quietly making sure the band is getting back together for a another title run.

In the middle of the James hysteria on Wednesday, the Spurs issued a two-sentence press release announcing that coach Gregg Popovich had agreed to a multi-year contract extension. Terms of the deal were not disclosed.

After beating the Miami Heat for the title last month, the Spurs quickly found out that Tim Duncan would indeed return next season. Deals with Patty Mills and Boris Diaw ensured the roster would remain largely intact, leaving little doubt the 65-year-old Popovich would return for a 19th season on the Spurs bench.
